Miss Anna Starks, whose home was with her parents, about five miles east of Anacostia, was killed by lightning Friday evening. There were some clothes hanging on a galvanized iron clothes line in the yard attached to the house, and Miss Anna had taken down about half of them, preparatory to carrying them into the house, when suddenly a bolt, which, it is supposed, was attracted by the wire, struck the unfortunate girl and killed her instantly. Her funeral took place yesterday, and Detective Rhodes came out here yester day in search of a bicycle which was stolen from the establishment of H. W. Higham at 476 Pennsylvania avenue, in Washington, last Tuesday. Prof. Lewis Coulter, the blcycle instructor at the establishment, accompanied the detective and identified the wheel. The machine was found in the possession of two colored boys named Geo. Douglass and Sam Clarke, who reside in Bladensburg. They stated that they had purchased the wheel in Bladensburg for $5 from a young white man from Washington last Wednesday and that they had spent 85 cents in having it repaired. Prof. Coulter stated to The Star reporter that he had hired the wheel last Tuesday afternoon for $1 to a young white man about twenty-one years of age, who gave his name as Geo. Wright and his place of residence as the Wright and his place of residence as the end of Harrison avenue in Anacostia. When Detective Rhodes, Frof. Coulter, Jack Bowles and Justice Hurley procured the wheel from the colored boys yesterday afternoon the lads seemed to be very much frightened to think they had purchased stolen property. The wheel has been in use for about a year and is valued at $50. Detective Rhodes has a good description of the yeung thief and expects to capture him very shortly. The authorities of Laurel and Baltimore are also on the lookout for him.

IMPORTANT INSTRUCTIONS.

Sugar, Rice and Cotton Growers' In-terests Better Protected.

Chief Willis L. Moore of the weather bu eau has issued instructions of an import ant character to the observers in the cotton, sugar and rice sections of the country which are expected to be of great practical benefit to the growers of those great staples. Chief Moore orders that, beginning with September 1, 1895, the hour for taking observations at cotton region, sugar and rice stations will be 8 a.m., seventy fifth meridian time, instead of 6 p.m., seventy-fifth meridian time.

"By making this change," continue the instructions, "it will be possible to issue the cetton region weather bulletins (form No. 1045) each morning for the twentyfour hours ending 8 a.m. within two hours after the hour of observation, and to give the minimum temperature for the current day. At present the bulletins are issued after 8 p.m., and, as a rule, reach the public not earlier than the morning of the following day—from fourteen to sixteen hours after the time of observation, the bulletin containing the minimum temperature which occurred more than twenty-four hours before posting. The great advantage that will result from this change is, therefore, obvious.

"In the cotton, sugar and rice-growing regions of the south hundreds of millions of dollars are invested, and the condition of the crops is at all times a feature eagerly watched by those interested in those ly watched by those interested in those staples.

"The many disasters to these investments by drought, frost, floods, violent wind storms and sudden and decided changes in temperature have created a demand for such information as can be used in determining, at frequent intervals, the condition of the growing crop.

"The Secretary of Agriculture believes that in giving the information to those for whom it is collected practically twenty-four hours earlier than at present this change will prove of great advantage to the cotton, sugar and rice interests of the south, and the practical benefits that will result will be greatly appreciated by producer and dealer alike."

DEAD LINE AT GRAY GABLES.

How the President is Protected From Unwelcome Visitors.

According to the New York Herald correspondent at Buzzard's Bay, the only approaches to Gray Gables, the President's cottage, is by the water landing at the ficating dock belonging to Mr. Cleveland, and by a private road. All other approaches are cut off by swampy ground. In order to protect the President and his family from intrusion a "dead line" has been established across the road near the cottage, and all persons except those who are ex-pected at the cottage, or whose business entitles them to go, are there turned back.

"At the lodge," says the Herald corre-spordent, "all carriages are met by either Officers McManus or Hazen, and their occupants are questioned. If they are personal friends of the President or are expected they are allowed to go on. If they are there simply out of curiosity or with the hope of seeing Mr. Cleveland, they are allowed to go on to 'the dead line,' as it is called. Beyond that may no man pass without Mr. Cleveland's direct permission. "This 'dead line' is established just west

"This 'dead line' is established just west of the stables. It was placed there so that vehicles could have an opportunity to turn around in the open space in front of the carriage shed. The driveway is too narrow to turn in any other place. From this outpost messages and cards are taken to the tites, while visitors wait with a hope that is almost sure to be blasted.

"All the people in the neighborhood who have horses that can be hired, and the livery stable keeper at Buzzard's Bay, have been explicitly instructed that under no circumstances can they drive their teams beyond the 'dead line,' no matter haw vigorously their patrons urge them to do so. As Mr. Cleveland is naturally heid in more or less awe by the natives, this rule has never been disregarded.

as Mr. Cleveland is naturally field in more or less awe by the natives, this rule has never been disregarded.

"The occasion for the establishment of 'the dead line' was not so much to keep at a distance importunate office seekers as to put a stop to the great annoyance which over-curious people subject the President's family. Until 'the dead line' edict went forth wagon loads of people from all around would drive into the President's grounds, pull up directly in front of the north piazza, the favorite gathering place of the family, and stare at the people who happened to be sitting there in a way that was, to say the least, embarrassing. Not only would they stare, but also point out to each other the various members of Mr. Cleveland's household, and in stage whispers make such remarks as:

"I wonder who that other fellow is? "I wonder who that other fellow is? Maybe it's Lamont."
"After a year of that sort of thing every day, with no holiday from the ordeal of inspection, even on Sunday, Mr. Cleveland established 'the dead line."
"He said he was not only willing, but felt much complimented to have his fellow citizens make trips to see his house and his grounds, but he seriously objected to having his family and himself put on exhibition like so many freaks in a museum. He

A collection was then taken up, which is to go toward the cost of the new church, the amount contributed being $132.

In the evening at 8 o'clock an old-fashioned love feast was field. The church was well filled, and the reminiscences told by some of the oldest members of the church, which were of an interesting nature, were enjoyed by all present. Addresses were made by W. H. Houghton, Dr. Charles L. Pate, James L. Ewin and the pastor. The closing address was delivered by Dr. Van Arsdale.

Brief History.

The origin of the present church dates back to 1805, when a number of the parishoners of the McKendree Methodist Episcopal Church, situated on Massachusetts averue between 9th and 10th streets northwest, withdrew, and a year later organized and built a small frame church at the and built a small frame church at the corner of 9th and P streets northwest. In 1874 the present edifice was constructed by the congregation, and at the same time negotiations were made with Dr. John M. Greene and Edward Owen for the purchase of the small frame church, which, after its removal, became the home of the Mount Zion M. E. Church, at the corner of 15th ard R streets northwest. It was through the efforts of Mr. Owen and Dr. Greene, who were aided by a board of trustees, that the frame building formerly occupied by the Hamline M. E. Church and the lot on the northeast corner of 15th and R streets the northeast corner of 15th and R streets northwest were secured and the improvements made. The board of trustees consisted of Kev. John M. Greene, B. H. Stinemetz, A. F. Moulden, J. R. Harrover, Edward Owen, E. W. Wakefield, J. M. Dunn, Thomas P. Morgan and H. R. Rowles. The first class leaders consisted of S. H. McCloskey and Rev. Dr. John M. Greene. The original board of stewards were Rev. John M. Greene, Edward Owen, James L. Ewin, now superintendent of the Foundry M. E. Sunday school, corner 14th and G streets; W. M. Clayton, G. Rowzee, W. H. Galnes, S. H. McCloskey and J. H. Thompson.

After the officers had been selected and After the officers had been selected and the church organized the subject of needed improvements was decided upon and approved by a committee. During the earlier part of 1874 a small brick class room was added to the rear building, and a tower was erected on the southwest corner of the church. The interior of the church was painted, frescoed and carpeted and new pews arranged.

The First Service.

On the morning of March 22, 1874, the church was thrown open for public worship; the dedicatory sermon being preached by the Rev. Dr. W. F. Speak, then then pastor of the Foundry M. E. Church preached at the afternoon service and at preached at the afternoon service and at night the new pastor, Rev. Dr. L. C. Muller, presided. The first service of the Sabbath school was held under the auspices of James L. Ewin, the superintendent, with a roll call of sixty-two nembers. At the end of the year the roll call contained the names of one hundred and two who were active members. The offertory of the first day amounted to over $1,000, which went toward paying for the new church. A few years ago the name of the church was changed from that of the Mount Zion Methodist Episcopal Church to the Fifwas changed from that of the Mount Zion Methodist Episcopal Church to the Fifteenth Street Methodist Church. Rev. Dr. J. H. Dashiell was then pastor of the church. During the pastorate of Rev. Dr. L. A. Thirlkeld the subject of a snew church was freely discussed, insomuch that the plans had been submitted, but were laid aside and finally dropped. At were laid aside and mainy dropped. At the beginning of the present year the mat-ter of rebuilding was again discussed, and the plans submitted to a committe and ap-proved. The building committee consisted of Rev. Dr. W. W. During the existence of the church the following pastors have presided: Revs. L. C. Muller, W. 1. McKenney, E. D. Owens, deceased; L. M. Gardner, J. F. Ockerman, J. H. Dashiell, L. A. Thirlkeld, J. N. Dashiell, L. A. Thirlikeld, J. N. Dashiell, L. A. Thirlik

A. Beaman, Dr. William Pittis, W. H. Houghton and Dr. C. R. Clark, the present superintendent of the Sunday school. The New Edifice. The work of tearing down one of the old landmarks of Washington has already begun, and the work of rebuilding will be pushed as rapidly as possible in order to open the new church by the 15th of January, 1896. The contract for tearing down the old structure and building the new edifice has been awarded to W. A. Kimmel, the architect and builder. It will be a twostory building, with subbasement and cellar, built of pressed brick, with brownstone trimmings. Joseph C. Johnson is the architect, and the plans for the new structure have been submitted and approved by the building committee. It will have a front-age of 60 feet on R street, and a depth of building committee. It will have a frontage of 60 feet on R street, and a depth of 90 feet. The R street entrance will be a heavy triple arch, supported on either side by clusters of stone columns. On either side of the triple-arched entrance will rise two towers, 112 and 58 feet, respectively. The corner tower will have a slate roof, with galvanized iron cornices and oval windows. In the basement will be located the Sunday school, infant class, the pastor's study, the library, and two commodious class rooms.

On the second floor will be the main auditorium, directly over the Sanday school room, with a seating capacity for nearly 900 persons. The gallery will be located at the south end, and the latest and best designed pipe organ will be provided. The building will be lighted by gas and Edison incandescent electric lights. The interior finish is to be of white pine, and the pews are to be of walnut. The five-foot embankment upon which the building now stands will be graded and terraced to 2½ feet high, surrounded by a cement curbing. The walks around the parking will also be laid in cement. The building, when completed, will cost $30,000, and enough of the building will be completed to enable the services to be held in the Sunday school room within three months. During the course of construction the services will be held in the chapel of the Gunton Temple Meriorial Church, corner 14th and R streets rorthwest, which has been placed at their disposal.

AMPHITRITE'S VENTILATION.

The Report Being Carefully Examined

A report regarding the ventilation of the Amphitrite, made by her captain and a board of officers of that vessel, has been received by the Navy Department and is being carefully examined and investigated by the different bureaus and the board on construction. The report shows high temperatures in different parts of the vessel, especially in the fire and engine rooms and in the superstructure. The question
